Thruway Activity Enters Ulster With Grading Operation

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 17 (AP)—A $77,975 contract providing for construction southward into Ulster county of the state's $202,000,000 thruway super highway, was awarded today by Charles H. Sells, state superintendent of public works.

The contract, awarded to the Grandview Co. of Mt. Vernon, calls for grading and all necessary drainage structures south from the county line to a short distance below the Hill road.

The 156 miles of the statewide thruway are scheduled for completion in 1951. Sells said that because of the use of modern earth-moving equipment, grading operations through the winter months will be possible with "very little delay."

Goldstein Declares Dewey Has Given Best Government

Republicans, He Declares, Have Met All Crises Intelligently, Quickly

New York, Oct. 17 (AP)—State Attorney General Nathaniel L. Goldstein said last night that no governor had given New York state better or more economical government, without impairing any essential or important service, than Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

Goldstein, speaking in relation to the Republican ticket, said in a statewide radio talk that under Dewey and the G.O.P. state administration "each crisis was met squarely through the war and critical postwar years—met with intelligence and dispatch entirely devoid of selfish political interest."

Declaring "the ALP-PAC Democratic alliance would replace the Dewey administration in New York with the chaos and confusion so typical in Washington," Goldstein said:

"The Dewey Administration in New York State has been everything that the present administration in Washington has not been."

He said Sen. James M. Mead, Democratic, American Labor, and Liberal Party gubernatorial candidate, was "part and parcel" of the "weak, inept, incompetent administration in Washington" and added:

"Since V-J Day, the Democrats have been standing knee-deep in a flood of chaos, skidding from one crisis to another, ducking, evading and bamboozling the public with an outpouring of conflicting statements about the state of the union."

Chapman Attacks Mead

Mead also was attacked by Alger B. Chapman, campaign manager of the Republican State Committee, who said in a statement that Mead, in his campaign "has degenerated into malicious and unfounded personal attacks" and "sought headlines at the expense of truth."

Mead, at Jamestown Tuesday night, named Chapman, former president of the State Tax Com-

Metal Trades Council to File Charges Unless Men Get Jobs

All Faiths Propose Human Combine, Economic Justice

'Moral Law' Is Cited by 122 Church Leaders; Every Man Has Same Values, They Say

New York, Oct. 17 (AP)—Leaders of all faiths, in a "declaration on economic justice," asked today for "an organized and democratic partnership for the general welfare rather than a competitive struggle for individual or group advantage."

The eight-point declaration, signed by 122 church leaders of the Protestant, Catholic and Jewish faiths, added that "the only alternatives to this are competitive economic individualism, private monopoly or excessive governmental intervention, all of which are unacceptable under the moral law."

That the leaders signed the statement only as individuals was emphasized, however, in another statement from the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, the Social Action Department of the National Catholic Welfare Conference and the Synagogue Council of America.

Spokesmen said the declaration was designed to show that persons of different faiths hold common concern in economic justice and well being and to affirm the necessity of applying the moral law of God to concrete economic issues.

The eight points were:

"The moral law must govern economic life."

"The material resources of life are entrusted to man by God for the benefit of all. . . . The aim of economic life should be the widest possible diffusion of productive and consumptive property among the great masses of the people. Cooperatives, both of producers and consumers, can effectively assist in promoting this end."

"The moral purpose of economic life is social justice. . . . Values must be maintained at that level which will most effectively contribute to full employment. In many cases this will mean that wages must be raised above the standard family living wage, which is only the minimum requirement of justice. . . . Special efforts should be made to raise the earnings of sub-standard income groups, not only in justice to them, but also in the interest of continuing employment."

"The profit motive must be subordinated to the moral law."

"The common good necessitates the organization of men into free associations of their own choosing."

"Organized cooperation of the functional economic groups among themselves and with the government must be substituted for the rule of competition."

"It is the duty of the state to intervene in economic life whenever necessary to protect the rights of individuals and groups."

"International economic life is likewise subject to the moral law."

Council to Name Ulster Fuel Company; Says Men Fired for Their Union Activities

The Kingston Metal Trades Council will file unfair labor practice charges against the Ulster Fuel, Oil, Heat and Power Company and the Ulster Distributing Company, unless the companies restore to full employment two men fired for alleged union activities, a council spokesman said today.

The council also demands recognition as the official bargaining agent for the petroleum workers at the two plants and the distributing companies in the area, the spokesman said.

Officials of the two companies involved could not be reached for a statement.

The Metal Trades Council official charged that two men employed by the firms were fired last Friday, two days after the Council announced that it had been designated as official bargaining agent for a majority of the oil industry workers in the area.

A council spokesman said that at the last regular meeting of his group he had been authorized to prosecute the charges to the full extent under the Unfair Labor Practice Act. Plants will be picketed and all companion industries and carriers will be asked to support the strike, if it occurs.

The two companies are operated by Nathan Feldman and Conrad Robinson, Corporation Counsel Arthur B. Ewig is attorney for the companies. Attorney Ewig was reported to have been given a deadline of today in which to answer charges made by the union.

Status of Mrs. F.D.R.'s License to Be Settled

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 17 (AP)—A hearing to determine the status of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt's driving license will be held in White Plains (county clerk's office) on November 8, the Motor Vehicle Bureau said today.

The hearings results from an automobile accident August 14 near Yonkers in which Mrs. Roosevelt and four other persons were injured. Mrs. Roosevelt, who suffered the loss of a tooth, told police she had "dozed at the wheel." Three cars were involved in the accident on the Sawmill River Parkway, three miles north of the New York city-Westchester line.

A Motor Vehicle Bureau spokesman said Mrs. Roosevelt may answer in person, through counsel or by affidavit at the referee's hearing, mandatory in accidents involving injury to several persons. Possible penalties include suspension or revocation of operator's license.

Motorists Pay $2,585

New York, Oct. 17 (AP)—The first day of strict enforcement of a no-parking ban in Mid-Manhattan cost the motorists who didn't heed the signs $2,585. A total of 169 summonses were issued yesterday by the 680 policemen ordered to keep the 315 blocks of streets in the center of the city clear for moving traffic. The fine for such violators had been set at $15.

O.P.A. Removes Price Lid on Coffee; Drive Extended to Other Products

Fats, Oils Freed La Guardia Is Against Freeing Meat, Other Items; Hits Truman

Washington, Oct. 17 (AP)—O.P.A. today removed price lids from coffee as it speeded up the decontrol drive.

The price agency said it has approved a decontrol petition on both green and roasted coffee at all levels of distribution.

As the White House prepared to hasten the scrapping of wage controls along with food price ceilings, O.P.A. freed all vegetable fats and oils—margarine, mayonnaise and salad dressings—from federal restraints.

The agency said it agreed to lift its price ceilings on coffee because "data presented by the industry and obtained by O.P.A." indicated that "supply and demand were approximately in balance."

The action represented the first formal approval of a petition for removal of ceilings on requests of one of O.P.A.'s industrial advisory committees.

The petitioner was the coffee industry advisory committee.

O.P.A. must act on such petitions within 15 days and it pointed out that today's action came 10 days after the decontrol petition was accepted.

Even as the pace quickened, U.N.R.R.A. Director Fiorello H. LaGuardia denounced the decision which led to the speed-up—removal of meat controls—and declared the new policy will result in "industrial confusion, financial dislocation, social disturbance and political disaster."

Will Clarify Wages

As LaGuardia spoke, in Oklahoma City, a high government official here predicted that "in a day or so" President Truman will clarify the status of the Wage Stabilization Board.

This is the tri-way—public, industry, labor—panel whose industry members recently submitted resignations to Mr. Truman. Some labor and business leaders have demanded that it be abolished.

While forecasting a quick decision on the Board, officials said the stage already is set for "accelerated" scrapping of wage controls. Hence they expressed doubt that the President will consider it necessary to take any further action on this right away.

"He made his position clear on that when he said in his radio talk (Monday night) that the speed-up of price decontrol will necessarily hasten the removal of wage controls," said one official in close touch with the White House discussions.

The official told a reporter that faster scrapping of wage curbs "will be automatic" as price lids drop off, since only industries under ceilings are tied at present to pay controls.

Really Going to Roll

He added that O.P.A. is "really going to roll" in getting rid of price ceilings, and that this will free wages in most industries very soon.

In some fields—construction, for example—prices will remain under control for some time. Hence, wages will too.

O.P.A. said its order removing ceilings from all vegetable fats and oils was the direct result of lifting controls on meat and items derived from it. Like lard.

LaGuardia's View

LaGuardia, former mayor of New York, said that Mr. Truman, in his "about face" on meat controls, had "joined the opposition."

Saying that the "first industrial strike in our country has forced a complete surrender of government," LaGuardia added:

"The precedent is dangerous. From now on every special interest, any combination not liking the law, not willing to accept a decision, bent on getting all its demands, bent on getting the example of stop producing, stop working, stop service, stop working—dislocate the economy of the entire country, or impair the health of the people, or jeopardize the life and safety of a community—until all demands have been granted."

Roosevelt Gave Orders to Rush Materiel to Reds

Put Spurs to W.P.B. in '42 Because Shipments to Russia Were Behind Schedule

By JOHN W. HENDERSON

Washington, Oct. 17 (AP)—President Roosevelt's insistence in 1942 that Russian lend-lease promises be fulfilled "regardless of the effect on any other part of our program" prompted official War Production Board concern.

W.P.B. members accordingly instructed Chairman Donald M. Nelson to tell Mr. Roosevelt of the "drastic effect" his stand was having on the entire American production schedule.

This became known today with publication by the Civilian Production Administration of the minutes of the War Production Board and its predecessor agencies—a five-volume report on top-level production problems from June, 1940, to October, 1945.

Mr. Roosevelt wrote W.P.B. on March 17, 1942, noting that shipments to Russia were far behind schedule and, the published minutes related, that "many shipments have been placed in a position subordinate to other requirements."

"The President stated his wish," the document went on, "that all material promised under the Moscow protocol be released for shipment at the earliest possible date, regardless of the effect on any other part of our program."

The President's letter was discussed at a March 24, 1942, meeting of the board, and the subject

Thirteen Are Dead Dozen Germans Are Under Scrutiny as U. S. Board Probes His Death

Nuernberg, Oct. 17 (AP)—The bodies of Hermann Goering and the 10 hanged Nazi war criminals have been cremated and the ashes "dispersed secretly," it was officially announced today.

The announcement of the disposition of the bodies was made at 5:35 p. m. by Col. B. C. Andrus, prison commandant.

He spoke in the name of the Allied Control Council, which was in charge of all details of the hangings and burial.

A six-line communique cleared up the major mystery in the wake of the hangings. The bodies were removed from the prison at 5:34 a. m. Wednesday (11:34 p. m. Tuesday, E.S.T.) in two sealed trucks, guarded by jeeps.

Where cremation took place was not disclosed. The dispersal details were wrapped in equal secrecy.

The text of the announcement:

"The body of Hermann Wilhelm Goering, together with the bodies of the war criminals executed in Nuernberg on October 16, 1946, in accordance with the sentences imposed by the International Military Tribunal, have been cremated and the ashes dispersed secretly."

"Signed, the Quindici Committee for the Detention of War Criminals."

Peace-Making Is Hard Job, Byrnes Tells Newsmen

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, Oct. 17 (AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes returned today from the Paris Peace Conference and received President Truman's congratulations for doing a "most excellent job" at the 21-nation conclave.

Byrnes reported to Mr. Truman immediately after arriving home. The 50-minute conference was the first meeting of the nation's top foreign policy makers since Henry Wallace was ousted from the cabinet for criticizing Byrnes' handling of relations with Russia.

Although the State Department chief told reporters he could say nothing about his conversations at the White House, Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross reported that Mr. Truman had congratulated Byrnes on his work.

Ross said the Secretary gave "a most excellent appraisal" on the peace conference and that the Chief Executive felt Byrnes had done a "most excellent job."

Byrnes hurried from the White House to his office to begin drafting a radio report to the nation tomorrow.

Earlier at the airport, he had told newsmen the peace conference "made progress" toward writing the peace for Europe. It was not, he said, a failure.

Byrnes flew to Washington in the President's personal plane, "The Sacred Cow." He was in good spirits and "happy" to be back after a three-month absence.

Peace Credits, Debits

Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.), who accompanied Byrnes, said there were both "peace credit and peace debit at Paris but on the whole the balance shows a net advantage for peace."

Byrnes' return from the conference, where he was in almost constant conflict with Russian Foreign Minister Molotov, coincided with the new indications that American relations with Russian bloc countries are worsening.

The latest development was the State Department's disclosure last night that the United States, apparently angered by charges of "dollar diplomacy," had choked off deals to give Czechoslovakia financial help.

Despite this and indications that differences between Russia and the United States increased at Paris, Byrnes was optimistic over prospects for agreements on peace in Europe.

"The task of making peace is a tedious one requiring great pressure," he told newsmen. "We feel we have made progress and I certainly hope that when the council of foreign ministers meets in New York November 1 we will complete the five peace treaties we have been working on."

He added in response to a specific question, he does not consider that the Paris Peace Conference was a failure.

Vandenberg said he would amplify his views on the Paris session in a speech Saturday night.

In addition to Vandenberg, Byrnes was accompanied home by Benjamin V. Cohen, State Department counselor, Charles E. Bohlen, special assistant to Byrnes on Russian affairs; Mrs. Byrnes, Mrs. Vandenberg, and Miss Cassie Connor, Byrnes' private secretary.

Big Crowd Is at Hand

A big crowd welcomed them at the airport, including Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson, Assistant Secretary Donald Russell, Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter and French Ambassador Henri Bonnet.

Byrnes' speech tomorrow is expected to cover the whole field of issues between Russia and the United States—differences given new emphasis by the action against Czechoslovakia.

Byrnes' speech is expected to deal with the whole range of critical issues involved in United States-Russian relations. On top of clear indications that these issues generally were intensified rather than solved by the Paris meeting, the State Department disclosed a dramatic new development on the

Fifty-Six Strikes Idle 55,000 in New York And City's Economy Is Reported Choking

New York, Oct. 17 (AP)—Fifty-six industrial disputes, now subject to labor-management deliberations, are slowly strangling the economy of the nation's premier city, effecting a loss of incalculable millions of dollars.

Locks, warehouses and railroad sidings in the city—which normally does a $10,000,000,000 annual business in exports and imports alone—are piled high with thousands of tons of freight unmoved because of the maritime and truck strikes.

Several hundred stores of two large food chains are closed because of the trucking dispute.

The U. S. Maritime Commission says 357 American flag ships are bottled up in New York harbor. The city's commerce and industry association estimates 5,000 traders in foreign goods are unable to move shipments valued at approximately $200,000,000.

A spokesman for New York's freight distribution for the railroad association, says a total of 8,500 cars of freight are stalled here because of the truck and maritime disputes. There are an additional 7,900 carloads of freight unloaded and awaiting movement.

The railway express agency has two similar embargoes in effect at New York. A spokesman said it ordinarily receives for daily distribution 160,000 carloads of freight, yesterday it got 65 carloads, chiefly wood and medicine which the truck drivers have agreed to move.

These embargoes have far-reaching economic effects, since they bar shipments which would be sent here from all parts of the country.

The city's Commerce and Industry Association said the port's $10,000,000,000 annual export-import business normally would average 350,000 tons of freight, valued at $27,500,000, each day. A spokesman said it would only be a fraction of that for September and October.

The spokesman said the loss of perishable goods because of the shipping strikes amounted to millions of dollars.

mission, as one of those "graduated with honors by Governor Dewey to political positions where in they could utilize whatever advantages had accrued to them by reason of their former official connection."

"We do not have to look very far, therefore," Mead had said, "to know from what source the immense campaign funds of Mr. Dewey are derived."

In reply, Chapman said: "I can assure Mr. Mead that the only 'immense' campaign funds available in this election are to be found in the coffers of the PAC, ALP, Communist and Democratic parties from which he is deriving his support."

Maj. Gen. William J. Donovan, head of the citizens committee for the election of Irving Ives, for U. S. Investigation on Truck Wages Fails in Purpose

New York, Oct. 17 (AP)—An investigation by the regional O.P.A. failed to support charges made by holdout truck operators that other employers who signed the so-called "Bohack Agreement" with striking A.P.L. drivers were violating rate ceilings.

Russell Hale, O.P.A. regional price executive, said Joseph M. Adelizzi, chairman of the joint committee representing the operators who have not signed the Bohack plan, had not supplied any evidence to back up the charges of "widespread" violations he made nearly three weeks ago.

Hale said an independent investigation by O.P.A. disclosed only four cases of possible violation and these still were under study.

The Bohack plan gives truck drivers $71.40 for a 40 hour week instead of $64 for a 44 hour week. Some operators have signed individual contracts on this basis with striking Locals 807, 816 and 282 of the Teamsters Brotherhood.

Adelizzi said last night, however, that he had detailed information concerning at least 25 cases in which rates had been raised to several times the former levels by employers operating under the Bohack plan. He said he had not turned the data over to the O.P.A. because of the uncertainty of the agency's future.

Meanwhile, more than 5,000 members of the three locals were to begin registering today for state unemployment insurance.

Visit to Nuernberg Jail by Correspondents May Have Been Tip-off to Reichsmarshal

By KINGSBURY SMITH
Representing Combined
American Press

Nuernberg, Oct. 17 (AP)—A visit by eight Allied correspondents to death row in the condemned block of Nuernberg jail late Tuesday might have prompted ex-Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering to take the poison which enabled him to cheat the gallows of Allied justice.

As one of those eight correspondents, I believe that the commotion caused by our visit may have served to tip off Goering and the other condemned men that the hour of their doom was about to strike.

As the correspondents, escorted by several security officers, shuffled through the narrow corridor, peering into the small iron-barred porches of each of the condemned men's cells, it naturally caused a stir.

At the front of each cell door stood a G. I. guard whose duty it was to keep constant watch on the man inside the cell. I noticed at the time that some of the guards turned around to see what the commotion was about as we entered and started to move along the corridor.

With most of the correspondents, including the writer, stopping to glance over the shoulder of the guards into the condemned cells, it was only human for some of the G. I.'s to turn their heads momentarily to see what was going on.

Might Have Been Moment
It is possible that in the moment, or moments, the G. I. guarding Goering's cell turned his head and the crown prince of Nazism managed to slip into his mouth the vial containing the cyanide of potassium.

It was just a few moments before when I had peeked over the guard's shoulder into Goering's cell. Lying stretched out full length on a small iron cot was the bulky figure of the man the Allied governments were most eager to have lead the parade of death to the gallows.

He was the only one of the old guard, top level Nazi chieftains they had managed to have convicted and condemned to death by the International Military Tribunal.

Goering had gone to bed, although the lights of his cell and length of his body were not yet dimmed. His body was covered by an ordinary khaki U. S. Army blanket. One bluish pajama-sleeved arm was outstretched, the other was folded over his chest with the fist closed.

He was lying absolutely motionless, with his head resting on one side and his eyes closed, as if in sleep.

Goering Was in Bed

Goering was the only one of the condemned eleven who was in bed. Most of the others were pacing their cells. Some were sitting on their beds, others at the frail little wooden table in each cell.

Goering's cell was the last one the correspondents reached on their initial walk down the corridor. I had seen the inmates of other cells moving around and it struck me as rather strange that Goering should have gone to bed so early and apparently was already asleep.

I turned to the duty officer of the guard, a young lieutenant standing by, and said, "Is he asleep?"

The lieutenant shrugged his shoulders and said he did not know.

A few minutes later, Col. Selby Little, the deputy security commandant, said to me, "Isn't that just like Goering—going to sleep on his last night?"

I still thought it was strange and so remarked to one of my colleagues.

Testimony Taken In Hotel Case by State's Examiner

Testimony in the labor bargaining dispute between the Hotel and Bartenders Union, Local 666, and the Stuyvesant Hotel was heard by a New York State Labor Relations Board examiner yesterday in a three-hour session in Kingston.

The examiner, Louis Di Russo, of Albany, took voluminous testimony, and said the state board would announce a decision within the next few weeks.

Local 666 was represented by its business agent, George E. Yerry, Jr. and Lawrence Rifkin, international organizer, Fred J. Eisler, manager, appeared for the hotel, with Frank Pedlow, of Albany, as attorney.

Representatives of both sides were sworn in for their testimony. The questioning revolved around a point of law to determine whether bartenders can be classified as craftsmen. The union is seeking to establish the bartenders as a bargaining unit for the union contract.

The hotel management contended as it has since the start of the dispute that all employees should take part in the election to establish a bargaining unit.

Mr. Yerry pointed out that Local 666 was interested only in unionizing the bartenders. He produced as evidence contracts signed with similar establishments for bartenders. He said the international classified various hotel workers according to groups such as bartenders, waiters, cooks and retains the privilege of organizing any or all of the components.

The Labor Relations Board in its decision will either establish the bartenders as a craft or designate all employees of the Stuyvesant as the bargaining unit.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, OCTOBER 17, 1946

STANLEY H. FULD

Stanley H. Fuld, who was appointed by Governor Dewey on April 25, 1946 as Associate Judge of the Court of Appeals, is the Republican candidate for re-election.

Charles Evans Hughes Jr., who is chairman of a non-partisan lawyers' committee for the election of Justice Fuld, states that the committee includes in its membership lawyers of the highest standing in the profession who are distinguished members of the Democratic Party.

The committee report in part states:

After the death of Judge Medalie, the court consisted of four Democrats and two Republicans. Judge Fuld's appointment increased the Republican representation to three, which was still a minority of the Court. Last June the Board of Directors of the New York County Lawyers' Association adopted a resolution on the recommendation of its Committee on the Judiciary, that "by virtue of Judge Fuld's present incumbency on the Court of Appeals, though for an appointed period, and of his distinguished and active career at the Bar, and his proven ability and learning, he is entitled to receive the nomination of all political parties for the position of Judge of the Court of Appeals." The report of the Committee stated that this would take both vacancies on the Court of Appeals—the other being the Chief Judgeship, to which Governor Dewey had appointed Judge John T. Loughran, a Democrat—"out of the realm of competitive partisan struggle." This, the Committee said, is believed to be a desirable aim in the case of candidates for our highest Court.

For a quarter of a century there has been an unbroken tradition that Judges of the Court of Appeals who have been appointed by Governors to fill vacancies should receive the nomination of both of the major political parties in order to continue them on the bench. There is certainly no sound reason this year for departing from that precedent. There can be no question of Judge Fuld's highest qualifications. The report of the Committee on the Judiciary of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, just issued, states that since Judge Fuld commenced his service on the Court, he has participated in the decision of approximately 120 appeals, as well as in the disposition of about 140 motions. The report says the members of the Committee have examined the opinions which he has written during that time, and that these opinions are clear and succinct and reflect a high order of judicial competence and craftsmanship. The Committee concludes that "Judge Fuld is well qualified for election to the Court of Appeals." His election would also produce a reasonable balance in the membership of the Court as regards to political affiliation.

THE EASY WAY

That KP duty the men griped about is paying dividends to their wives now.

Before the war an electric dishwasher, or mixer, or automatic garbage gobbler may have sounded extravagant, but now all the girl he came home to has to do is mention peeling potatoes, or washing dishes and her point is won. Such conversation brings before the veteran such overwhelming memories of kitchen duty in the army that he's only too willing to ease the housekeeping load at home.

Electric appliance manufacturers are getting orders for their most elaborate equipment from veterans living on farms, in prefabricated houses, or any other kind of home that will hold the modern machinery.

The time gained by such improvements can be an asset to any whole family.

'These Days'

By George E. Sokolsky

TRUMAN VS. TAFT

Harry Truman's decontrol of meat is a normal Presidential response to public opinion on the eve of a Congressional election. Other Presidents have been faced with the necessity of correcting their own grievous errors to save themselves from repudiation and defeat at the polls. Usually, they find a dignified formula which accomplishes their objectives without destroying their prestige. Mr. Roosevelt, for instance, extricated himself from his unfortunate appointment of Hugo Black to the Supreme Court Bench, after the prolonged Court Packing Fight, by the Quarantine Speech in Chicago.

Harry Truman lacks in gracefulness and urbanity. He does not trip the light fantastic; he comes down on milady's toes like a clodhopper. He is unable to turn around easily and with finesse; he moves so clumsily that he knocks down all about him, including himself. His is the nature not of the fawn running to cover so beautiful in motion as to distract the hunter by the rhythmic glory of supreme motion; rather, it is like the mule who stands in his tracks, hard and without meaning, his willfulness to demonstrate.

And so being forced by realistic circumstance to retreat from an untenable position—and one that he, himself, describes as having but one logical and workable alternative, decontrol—he delivers a pedestrian speech in which he blames the Congress for his mulish unwillingness to recognize that the President exists to execute the laws passed by Congress and not to win elections. Harry Truman is still running for County Judge in Missouri. He is still a local, clubhouse politician showing the boys how he can put one over.

And curiously enough he believes, although no one else agrees with him, that the candidate opposing him is Senator Robert A. Taft. When he refers to Taft he sounds like a candidate hitting out at an opponent whose victory is certain. He sounds like Senator Mead talking about Governor Dewey in the New York canvass. For in this speech, as in its predecessor, he blames Senator Taft for his leadership of a Democratic Congress.

Obviously, it was a Democratic Congress that defeated the Bowles-Truman OPA Bill. It was a Democratic Congress that refused to give Truman a measure that would have satisfied Chester Bowles and the P.A.C. Senator Taft could not have led that Congress, since he is a Republican. As a matter of fact, Harry Truman is the leader of the party that defeated him, Harry Truman, in the Congress—a defeat of which he complained bitterly in his Decontrol Speech. Again, as a matter of fact, it was Senator Taft who quarreled with those who wanted to let the OPA die and helped to get some kind of bill out of a Congress that, facing an election, knew that the people were weary of regimentation and controls and the hangover of war powers and wanted to be let alone.

Mr. Truman is apparently psychologically incapable of being President in 1946 without constantly responding to the needs of his candidacy in 1948. And for some reason, he believes that he will be opposed by Taft in 1948. He is picking the Republican candidate for 1948.

It was much in the same spirit as his Palestinian proposal on the eve of Yom Kippur which threw a monkey-wrench into the London negotiations involving Jews and Arabs. It might have made a few votes in a few big cities among those who believe speeches, but it was timed with a heavy hand and a vulgar taste and with the obviousness of the newly rich who wear mink coats and diamonds in the fish market.

He decontrolled meat because he faced a revolt by the people who knew that only his obstinacy stood between them and their food. In his speech he proves beyond cavil that there was no other alternative; that he had examined all other proposals and found them faulty; that only decontrol was not faulty.

He might have decontrolled meat with a smile and he might have said, with a graceful bow, "The voice of the people is the voice of God." Instead, he blamed it all on Bob Taft!

THAT BODY OF YOURS

INFANTILE PARALYSIS

For years there has been a controversy among the members of the medical profession as to how the tiny organisms causing infantile paralysis (poliomyelitis) enters the body. For many years it was believed that the organisms entered by way of the nose, thence to lungs and into the blood stream. Later the organisms were found in the intestine and food was blamed as the source of the disease. Still later the throat was blamed as poliomyelitis seemed, in a number of cases, to follow a sore throat.

An opportunity to examine the condition of the nerves of the outer parts of the body and also the nerves of the central nervous system—spinal cord and brain—of 8 patients dying of the disease was presented to Drs. H. E. Fisher and Rosalie J. Silverberg. In the Journal of Experimental Medicine, New York, these research workers state that based on the symptoms present in both outer and inner nervous centers, the frequency with which the various nerve centers were involved, and the probability of these centers being the pathway by which the organisms entered the body, careful observations were made. From these observations they state (a) that the large facial or trigeminal (fifth cranial) nerve was the commonest pathway. (b) the ninth and tenth cranial nerve (stomach and intestines) was next most common. The other nerves were also pathways, though not so often, but the evidence that the organisms in poliomyelitis entered more often by way of the nose, throat and bronchial tube than by the digestive system was convincing. This means that the organisms can penetrate through many of the nerves.

However, the outstanding fact found by these research workers was that "the pharynx (throat) appears to be an especially favorable site for the primary or first penetration of the small organism (virus) into the body. This then is another proof that recent removal of tonsils is a factor in allowing the virus of poliomyelitis to enter the body by way of the throat and cause the dangerous type (bulbar) of the disease.

"At Century's Turn"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

The cornerstone of the Kingston City Library on Broadway, opposite the city hall, was laid on Monday afternoon May 25, 1903. There was no ceremony held at the laying of the stone.

Only the members of the board of trustees and a few interested spectators were present. The stone is four feet long, 18 inches thick, and one foot deep. It is set in the corner of the building facing Broadway and Andrew street.

A gift of $30,000 from Andrew Carnegie made the erection of the building possible.

The Kingston Literary Society, which had been inactive for some years, was revived at a meeting of some of the prominent men of the city at the home of the Rev. Dr. J. J. O'Connell.

First Dutch Reformed Church, on Saturday evening, June 13, 1903. At this meeting Dr. Van Slyke was elected president; Judge A. T. Clearwater, vice president, and Rabbi Joseph Leiser of Temple Emanuel, secretary.

Among the names on the roster when the society was revived were Dr. Van Slyke, Judge Clearwater, Judge John G. Van Eiten, Rabbi Leiser, the Rev. Dr. Lewis W. Barney, the Rev. Octavius Applegate, Prof. Easterbrook, Prof. Myron J. Michael, Louis B. Van Gascoek, and the Rev. A. H. Schleider.

Turning for a minute to professional baseball in Kingston it was on June 3, 1903, that President Abram M. Roos of the Kingston club, closed the deal for the lease of the grounds on Cornell street, which later became known as the Athletic Field.

It was planned to enclose the grounds with a high board fence, and to erect a grandstand and bleachers.

Prior to leasing the new grounds the Hudson River League games had been played at the Kingston Driving Park on Manor avenue.

In taking over the Athletic Field the local club believed attendance would be largely increased as the new field was more accessible for the baseball fans, as the trolley cars running on Broadway, were but a short distance from the Athletic Field.

In June that year the local club added three new players to the roster. They were Butternore and Gagner, fielders, and Beckendorf catcher. Beckendorf alternated with the plate during the season with McCormack.

St. Mary's Dramatic Society was an active organization in the years at the century's turn, and on May 18 and 19, 1903, the society presented the drama "Woe Back" from the stage of the Empire Opera House on lower Broadway.

Among those in the cast were David Long, Patrick McDermott, Philip J. Dougherty, Hugh J. Hunt, Edward Shay, John Finn, Anna Rush, Margaret Culliton, Tessie Haney and Anna Ryan.

The Empire Opera House where the play was presented, was the former Liscomb Opera House. I believe the name was changed to the Empire either in 1902, or early in 1903.

Today the theatre, which was remodelled some years ago, is known as the Orpheum.

New Zealand is looking well ahead in replacement of some of the giant kauri pine trees which have been cut for timber. Political Results of Meat Decontrol Show Several Arguments Advanced by Democrats and Republicans
By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Oct. 17.—The political consequences of President Truman's decision to decontrol meat are being variously surveyed today. Democrats seem to lean to the idea that the action came in time to ward off defeat in the congressional elections. Certainly if the decontrol order had not been issued, the Republicans would have had more of an issue than they have now.

The Republicans, on the other hand, insist that the entire economic situation is causing widespread protest and that this will be reflected at the polls. They believe that the protest feeling is already deeply ingrained in the electorate and that the decontrol action comes too late to bring stability of the meat supply.

The Democrats expect to benefit politically by the obvious rise in prices. For it is reasoned that, by forcing the removal of controls, the President has demonstrated that inflationary forces are at work to raise the cost of living.

It seems to have been overlooked that the President can impose controls under his broad powers and that theoretically nothing final has been attained by recent decisions. After election, controls can be reimposed as a means of stopping the rise of living costs. But the predictions from informed quarters are that prices will drop after a few weeks and that the ultimate price level will not be far beyond what it was under ceilings. If meat becomes adequate at a reasonable price, it seems unlikely that there will be a demand for the replacement of controls.

It is, therefore, the immediate future—the time between now and November 5th—which has to be appraised from a political viewpoint. Prices will remain high until Election Day at least and it seems improbable that much meat will find its way to the nation's dinner table for some time to come. If the voters are unhappy about this turn of events and if they continue to blame the Democratic administration, it would appear that the protest vote would be considerable.

The Democratic managers are issuing statements of confidence that they will retain a majority in both Houses. Usually statements before election are made for psychological effect not only on voters but on party workers. Democrats, it must be noted, are basing their confidence on something more than wishful thinking. In the last several elections the Democrats have had the benefit of the organization work of the C.I.O.-P.A.C. which is far more effective than that of the regular organizations of any political party. The C.I.O.-P.A.C. gets on figures in many states and Democratic managers are confident that the vote has been gotten out through the labor union organizations.

The labor strength, however, is concentrated in the cities. It can influence the outcome of gubernatorial or senatorial races because big majorities in the cities are down and overcome Republican majorities in rural districts and small towns. In the voting, on the other hand, for members of the House of Representatives this cannot be a factor. Each congressional district is a unit and there can be no help to gain control of the House, if twice as big a majority is rolled up in city districts than heretofore. The C.I.O.-P.A.C. doesn't have the organization to do the work in small towns and rural districts.

The chances are that, based on what has happened to date, the Republicans will secure control of the House of Representatives but not by a big margin whereas control of the Senate by the Republicans would appear to be more likely.

If the Democrats succeed in keeping control of the Senate by a small majority, they will control the selection of committee chairmanships, but in the upper House will be controlled in fact by a coalition of southern Democrats and Republicans. The veto power in the next two years will then come into more use than ever before and this in turn will have an effect on President Truman's political record on current issues, assuming that he is a candidate for renomination, which is by no means settled.

If the Democrats maintain control of both Houses by comfortable majorities, it would be a vote of confidence in Mr. Truman's administration and his renomination would seem to be assured. (Reproduction rights reserved).

WHAT REALLY HAPPENED AT BIKINI?
The facts about the Bikini atomic bomb tests have come to light only gradually, and many questions still are unanswered.

During the first ten minutes following the detonation of the first bomb, radio commentators filled the air so full of contradictory reports that the story was another version of the blind men feeling a different portion of the pachyderm's anatomy.

I learned only last week what caused this first flood of confusion. Lieut. Eric Strutt, the only naval writer to cover Operation Crossroads, told some of the inside facts to members of the Hollywood Authors' Club.

Radio commentators knew they were under extreme pressure to get their observations out through the ether to a breathless world the moment the bomb flashed. Several commentators, therefore, concocted a guesswork description of the spectacle, writing it the day before, and began reading it as soon as the detonating button was pushed. Naturally, what they had guessed in advance and what other observers actually saw did not jibe.

One commentator—reporting what he had dreamed up—told of an instantaneous red flash, followed by a billowing, beautiful creamy-white cloud. Another, however, ten minutes later was still "seeing" a great red plume of fire. Naval officers and scientists, to whom the trick of "advertising copy" was an unknown technique, looked from commentator to bomb burst and back to commentator trying to figure out who had gone crazy under the impact.

Sitting at your radio, you couldn't know which commentator to believe.

The color, size and shape of the cloud on the atomic horizon mattered little. What did matter were the extent and the nature of the damage, and what to do about the future navy. Here again, there was confusion and will be for a long time to come, no doubt—partly because for days and weeks after the tests so many officials and observers did so much unofficial guessing.

One scientist, as Lieutenant Strutt recalled, guessed, through the radio voice of Walter Winchell, a little while after the first test, that the bomb would have killed 15,000 if the ships had been manned. Others guessed far under that figure; while guesses as to actual damage left the reader hopelessly confused and the navy will recall, let us have the real facts only piecemeal over a period of weeks.

Who knows even today whether that pig—was it No. 31?—which somebody originally said was a bikini swimming in the poisoned Bikini Lagoon after the detonation, and which never developed a single atomic ache, was actually a star or bombed ship, or was he safe on land, as somebody more recently reported? Scientists, to whom this question is of vital interest, may know the truth; the public certainly does not.

of the second Bikini test, the under-water explosion. There was ship afloat that can ride out such a blast, even at considerable distance away. Radio activity in water currents traveled out to several miles, a little while, forcing observation ships regularly to weigh anchor and run ahead of the poison tide.

Ships remaining afloat after the blast were so charged with radio activity that they could not be boarded for ten days or longer. There appears little likelihood that crews would have survived of these ships.

Some questions to be answered as a result of the test, of course, are how to de-activate radio active ships, how to treat exposed persons, and what to do about the navy.

Some naval bigwigs apparently are thinking more seriously than ever in terms of thousands of small, air surface craft, others are talking of an under-sea fleet. Still others want plenty of everything, just to be sure.

Meanwhile, "people who will have to find a way to pay for the future navy, are rightly wondering if they are about to be taken for a ride by big navy brass and Big Steel. They are caught between the same old "rock and a hard place", not knowing whether to go along toward the 300-billion-dollar debt mill-stone or risk an unpredictable tombstone.

One thing I believe becomes clearer and clearer to many readers is it won't matter what people think or want unless and until they take back unto themselves control of government. So long as exploitation-minded international bankers and power-drunk international politicians remain the "government behind the government," John Q. Public's small voice will hardly be heard round the naval planning table.

Indors Lose Jewels In Surrey Robbery

London, Oct. 17 (AP)—Surrey police announced today that burglars last night broke into the country estate of the Earl of Dudley at Sunningdale, Surrey, and stole a considerable amount of jewelry belonging to the Duke and Duchess of Windsor.

The robbery and the duke himself had little to say. "The duchess and I are victims of this robbery," he told reporters. "The case is entirely in the hands of the police and I have, therefore, no statement to make."

Scotland Yard detectives were summoned hurriedly to Sunningdale and spent the early morning hours searching for clues.

The British Press Associated said the Duchess of Windsor owns jewels estimated to be worth $1,000,000, but there was no estimate of the exact amount stolen.

Russians Anticipate Huge Population With Money Aid

Moscow, Oct. 17 (AP)—Increases in already liberal allowances for Russian mothers—especially those with large families—are expected by some observers to boost the total population of the Soviet Union to more than 200,000,000 within the next few years.

(The 1939 census gave Russia's population as about 170,500,000.) Under a budget proposed by the finance ministry, the government would spend 4,000,000,000 rubles in allowances to mothers next year, as compared with 2,100,000,000 rubles last year.

(The ruble's official value is 5.3 to the dollar.) It is no secret that Russia, which suffered heavy losses during the war, needs manpower to man her machines and till her fields. The new appropriations are expected to provide an incentive for larger families.

The government instituted the program of grants to mothers on July 8, 1944 and in the first 12 months over 200,000 mothers who have borne and reared five to 10 children each received the medal of maternal glory.

The current scale of payments to mothers ranges from 400 rubles on the birth of the third child to 5,000 rubles for each child over 10 years of age.

Monthly allowances for mothers with large families range from 80 rubles beginning with the birth of the fourth child to 300 rubles for every child after the tenth.

Student (rearing)—On tiptoes? Why?

Professor: So you won't wake up the audience.

Diners Swear on Tip

Diners in evening dress waited on themselves and washed their own dishes in some of Rome's smarter restaurants when all the waiters in Northern Italy went on strike for shorter hours. Only about 100 of Rome's 4,000 restaurants, cafes and bars closed completely. In most others, proprietors enlisted the aid of their enormous families to replace the hard help. Where the owner had too few descendants, diners had to shift for themselves.

Ship Firm Gets Subsidy

The National Government of China has granted a large subsidy to the Ming Sung Industrial Co., one of the largest private concerns, to compensate it for war losses resulting from services to the nation. This action has started endeavors by 40 other Chinese shipping firms, which formerly operated in Shanghai but closed down in wartime. If they are to reopen they must have funds to acquire new shipping ton-tons, they insist.

Grand Union Hold

Line on Meat Prices

A statement released by the management of the Grand Union Company to The Freeman, specifically states they will not increase retail meat prices unless they are forced to by increased wholesale costs. This is in line with Grand Union's traditional policy of keeping food prices low at all times and will be further carried out by continuing to sell all food items, as they are released from control, at or below markups allowed by O.P.A.

Grand Union officials point out that for the first nine months of this year, Grand Union meat sales were 130 per cent higher than during the same period in 1945. However, they realize that this was just a drop in the bucket of what would fill the demand in the average meat store. The lifting of controls will enable them to ship additional cattle to their slaughterhouse, and these increased supplies will be sold to the public at the lowest possible prices.

Economic Justice Declaration Signed By Esopus Priests

New York, Oct. 16 (Special)—The Rev. Joseph Oberle, professor of economics, and the Rev. Paul Smith of Mount St. Alphonsus Seminary, Esopus, are among 122 Catholic, Jewish and Protestant leaders, representative of the entire country, over whose signatures a "Declaration of Economic Justice" has just been issued through the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, the National Catholic Welfare Conference and the Synagogue Council of America.

Its purpose is two-fold: first, to demonstrate to the nation that a vast number of people of religious faith hold a common concern in economic justice and well being; and, second, to affirm principles based upon a belief in God and in moral law.

The declaration holds: the right to private property is limited by moral obligations and is subject to social restrictions for the common good; that prices, profits, wages and incomes be balanced to achieve stable and employment; that the profit motive be subordinated to the social law; that men organize for the common good into free associations of their own choosing; that organized cooperation of the functional economic groups among themselves and with the government must be substituted for the rule of competition; that it is the duty of the state to intervene in economic life whenever necessary; and finally, that international economic life is likewise subject to the moral law.

A.F.L. Asks Change In Housing Goals, Demands Session

Chicago, Oct. 17 (AP)—The American Federation of Labor today called on the administration to change its housing goals for veterans to produce more apartments for rent and fewer one-family homes for sale.

At the same time the A.F.L. convention demanded that President Truman summon Congress back to Washington for a special session to enact the Wagner-Ellender-Taft general housing bill. The convention took its stand on housing as delegates prepared for final adjournment later in the day. The A.F.L. sessions have been continuing for two weeks.

The convention housing resolution said most veterans hesitate "to be tied to the responsibility of paying a long-term mortgage, and rental apartments would provide a living set-up within the veteran's spending means, causing him more contentment," the resolution added.

The convention yesterday elected 73-year-old William Green to a 24th consecutive term as A.F.L. president. Also re-elected without opposition were secretary-treasurer George Meany and all 13 federation vice presidents. San Francisco was selected as the 1947 A.F.L. convention city.

Prudential Awards Rose With Locket For Long Service

A proud man is District Manager William Rose of the Prudential Insurance Company. He's wearing a diamond locket presented by the concern for 30 years of faithful service in its employ.

Presentation of the locket and a certificate were made by J. Harry Petter, regional manager from the Newark, N. J., home office in the presence of the local office staff and agents. He was very generous in his praise for Mr. Rose's faithfulness and ability.

Ben Silverman, assistant manager, presented a large basket of flowers on behalf of the staff, and made appropriate remarks. Other speakers were John Edwards of Kingston, also an assistant manager; R. J. Adickes of Margateville; W. Van Wyren, representing the agency staff; J. Sprugel, district manager of the Newburgh office; and H. Spross, home office representative.

Mr. Rose's service began as an agent in New Haven, Conn., on September 4, 1916. He later served as assistant manager at Bridgeport and South Norwalk, Conn., Newburgh and Haverstraw. He was assigned as manager of the Kingston district, on April 1930. The Kingston district comprises 55 agents, eight assistant managers and 10 clerks with branch offices at Saugerties, Catskill, Margaretville and Delhi, covering Ulster, Greene and Delaware counties.

Alfy Didn't Mislead His Wife, Judge Rules

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 17 (AP)—A New York State Supreme Court justice holds that a woman cannot have her marriage annulled just because she fails to reform her husband.

To grant an annulment under such circumstances would be "nothing short of approving trial marriage," Justice Isadore Bookstein ruled yesterday in dismissing an action brought by Mrs. Alfred H. Hillcocks of Cossackie, mother of two children.

Mrs. Hillcocks, Bookstein said, was admittedly aware before her marriage that her prospective husband "was in the habit of wandering off for part unknown at different times" so "if there has been any deception, it has been self-deception."

Percy Grainger Will Open New Paltz Artists' Series

Percy Grainger, world famous piano virtuoso, composer, and conductor, will open the New Paltz Artists' series with a piano recital at 8:30 on October 22 in the State Teachers College Auditorium. Also in the series will be Cecil Brown, distinguished war correspondent and commentator on January 14, 1947; Tito Schipa, renowned operatic tenor, on February 19, 1947; Anne Brown, soprano star of "Porgy and Bess," on March 31, 1947; and a Spring Concert by the New Paltz College Musical Organizations on May 20, 1947.

Percy Grainger, composer of the well-known "Country Gardens," "Molly on the Shore," and many other famous pieces, has been for a generation one of the foremost pianists not only in the United States and Europe, but in the world at large. Although Bach has always been his favorite, Grainger has been a constant champion of the moderns, being the first to play Debussy, Ravel, Cyril Scott, Delius, Albeniz, Carpenter, Dett, and Guon in many lands.

His program at New Paltz on

PERCY GRAINGER

October 22 will comprise, in addition to four of his own well-known compositions, the Bach-Liszt "Fantasia and Fugue for Organ," four études of Chopin, "Love Walked In" by Gershwin-Grainger, and "Islamey," an Oriental fantasy by Balakirev.

Grainger was born in Australia, where until his tenth year he studied piano with his mother, a devoted musician. He appeared on the concert stage at an early age, and by the time he was twelve he had earned enough to go with his mother to Germany for further study. He made his American debut in 1915 and became an American citizen in 1918 while serving as a bandsman in the U. S. Army. It was during this time that he composed the "Country Gardens." His hand often aided Liberty Loan drives and on these occasions he was frequently called on to play the piano. Seeking to please his audience with something tuneful and rhythmic, he chose to improve upon the English Morris tune "Country Gardens." Gradually his improvisations took a definite form and one day he put his adaptations down on paper. This piece has since broken all G. Shirmer's sales records, and is at present selling at the rate of more than 27,000 copies a year in the United States alone.

When the great Norwegian composer Edvard Grieg heard Grainger play the former's peasant dances, he was enthusiastic and was amazed that the young Australian could play them so much better than any Norwegian pianist. Grieg himself chose Grainger to play the Grieg concerto at the Leeds (England) festival of 1907.

To the concert stage Percy Grainger brings an extremely colorful and vigorous personality as well as the highest degree of achievement in music.

Season tickets for the New Paltz Artists Series as well as single admissions are available to the general public. All seats will be reserved and may be secured in advance at the College Book Store in New Paltz. Phone and mail orders will be accepted. Any remaining seats will be placed on sale at the College Auditorium box office on the evening of each performance.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys
If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 2 pints a day. If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste material stays in the blood. These poisons may start tagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with much trouble burning sometimes shows there's something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Backache Kidney Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's Pills are kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. A report to our Telephone Customers

TELEPHONE service is a service that is close to the people and we want the people to be close to the telephone business. So we should like to tell you some of the things we are doing to give service to those who are waiting and to improve the service for everybody.

These first nine months of 1946 have been the busiest months we have ever known. We have put in 285,200 telephones in the territory served by our company—more than twice as many as in any similar period in our history. But even this record-breaking performance has not been enough.

The good news is that we have been able to take care of almost two out of three of the customers whose applications were held up by lack of facilities on V-J Day.

On the other hand, new applications for service have come in faster than we have been able to clean up the old ones. As we go ahead on one front, there are increasing demands on another.

We want all those who are waiting for telephone service to know that we are doing our best to get it to them. It is just as much an emergency to us as a fire or a flood or a hurricane—but this is country-wide. The job isn't done until we have furnished service to every one who wants it and there isn't a single person on the waiting list.

MORE PEOPLE USING THE TELEPHONE THAN EVER

These first 9 months of 1946 have also brought an extraordinary increase in the use of the telephone. Total calls throughout our territory are now running at the rate of 19,170,000 a day—an increase of 3,588,000 a day over last year. Both local and out-of-town calls are at an all-time high. Most of these calls are going through without difficulty, but we realize that during rush periods calls may occasionally be delayed.

As telephone needs have increased throughout our territory, we have increased our forces to take care of those needs and we now have 60,400 employees—about 53% more than we had in 1940. They have been resourceful and competent in meeting unprecedented demands for service. There is indeed no other business where team-work and what we know as the Spirit of Service are so important.

All of us in the telephone business look forward to the day when there will be better, faster service for local and out-of-town calls, fewer people on party lines, and greatly improved service extended to many more thousands of rural families.

It will take a great deal of money and some time to do all the things we have planned for your telephone service but our expansion program is well under way.

It would be farther along if there had not been shortages of many critical materials, but we have not been sitting back waiting for these shortages to clear up. Everything that imagination could devise or ingenuity could suggest has been done.

MORE AND BETTER SERVICE FOR EVERY TELEPHONE USER

We have our toughest problems where telephone service cannot be provided until we have more switchboards and new or enlarged telephone buildings.

For it takes something more than know-how to get things done these days. It takes materials and equipment and determination.

Our desire is to give more and better service to every one who uses the telephone. And to do it always with courtesy and understanding.

New Amendment Issued to Housing Eviction Section

Charles C. Hoag, area rent director for Orange, Ulster Dutchess and Rockland counties announced today that a new amendment has been issued to the eviction section of the housing regulations, effective September 20, 1946 in this area.

A person who became the owner of a housing unit on or after December 1, 1942 in Orange, Ulster and Dutchess counties and on or after June 1, 1946 in Rockland and Westchester counties, who wishes to occupy the housing unit must file a petition to secure an eviction certificate. The certificate, when issued, authorizes the pursuance of local remedies six months after the date of filing the petition in the area of office.

If the purchaser is a veteran of World War 2, the certificate of eviction will be authorized at the expiration of four months after the date of filing, the rent director said.

Mr. Hoag further explained that generally one of the specified requirements is that 20 per cent of the housing purchase price must be paid prior to filing the petition.

The new amendment, however, also prohibits the improper use of an eviction certificate, he declared.

Mr. Hoag further pointed out that a landlord who has obtained a certificate relating to eviction, must notify the area rent director in writing of any change in his intention of use of the certificate, or if he has decided not to use it, he must surrender for cancellation.

The eviction petition forms and further information may be secured at the Rent Station, O.P.A., Municipal Auditorium, Kingston, N. Y.

Byrnes Returns From Conference

very eve of the cabinet officer's return.

Officials said the United States had canceled a $40,000,000 surplus property credit to Czechoslovakia and in addition had suspended indefinitely a pending $50,000,000 rehabilitation loan to the Czechs by the Export-Import Bank.

The primary reason behind this $90,000,000 slap at one of the countries in the Russian Bloc was said to be the Czech backing of Soviet charges at Paris, that the United States is restoring to "dollar diplomacy" in eastern Europe in an effort to advance "American imperialism."

Byrnes May Have Acted

There was no official statement to this effect but the evidence appears to be that at some critical moment in the long Paris struggle Byrnes himself ordered or approved the economic crackdown on Czechoslovakia.

An even more drastic action than the temporary suspension last summer of a $80,000,000 loan and credit to Poland, the rap at the Czechs also was in sharp contrast to this country's traditional friendship toward Prague.

Byrnes has been in Paris for more than 11 weeks of constant negotiation and frequent conflict, most of the latter with Foreign Minister Molotov of Russia. He had hoped to have peace treaties with the Balkan States, Italy and Finland fully accepted by the Big Four powers in line with his plan to restore organized peace to eastern Europe this year.

Instead, the Paris Conference—which could only render advisory decisions to the Big Four—so intensified the division among the powers that the Foreign Ministers of the United States, Britain, Russia and France did not even approach the task of completing work on the treaty drafts. That job was set over until November 4 in New York.

Diplomatic authorities said, however, that the Paris Conference should not be written off as a complete failure because it had clarified issues and had given the smaller nations a chance to speak their minds on the issues of peace making.

Cancellation Explained

The cancellation of the Czech surplus property credit and the suspension of the loan negotiations were explained for a variety of reasons, but officials agreed that except for the Czech-Russian situation these might readily have been smoothed out.

Aside from the Czechs' support of the Russian position at Paris, the United States objected to two factors: A Czech deal to resell $10,000,000 worth of surplus property to Romania at a profit and the failure of the Czechs to agree formally to the rights of American citizens with respect to property and commercial operations in that country.

The Czechs actually are getting $10,000,000 worth of war surplus credit originally was $50,000,000, and the United States told the Czech diplomatic mission here in a note of September 28 that this government would make good on its commitments definitely undertaken up to that time. However, none of the goods which the Czechs received under this arrangement will be sold to the Romanians.

London, Oct. 17.—Czech sources in London expressed surprise today that America had suspended negotiations for a $50,000,000 export-import bank credit to Czechoslovakia at the moment Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk and

Carl Bodie Fined $50 For Lack of License

It cost Carl Bodie, 20, of 68 Murray street, a fine of $50 as a second offender of the motor vehicle law in operating an automobile without a license, when he was arraigned before Judge Matthew V. Cahill in police court today.

Judge Cahill in imposing the fine pointed out to Bodie that the imposition of the $50 fine was mandatory under the provisions of the motor vehicle law, and warned that if arrested again for a similar offense the fine would be $100.

Bodie was first arrested on a charge of driving without a license on September 20, and at that time Judge Cahill imposed a fine of $5, and told him it would prove much cheaper to obtain a driving license. Yesterday Bodie was picked up again by the police on a charge of driving without a license. He pleaded guilty today in court.

Non-Support Charge

Salvatore Vegeto, 26, of 104 Hasbrouck avenue, arrested yesterday on a warrant charging him with failing to provide for the support of his family, had his hearing adjourned for a week in police court today. Judge Cahill in granting the adjournment said that it should prove sufficient time for Vegeto to find a job and support his family.

Seabury Takes Post

New York, Oct. 17.—Samuel Seabury, veteran lawyer and jurist, and founder of the Fusion Movement in New York city, yesterday assumed the chairmanship of the Greater New York's Lawyer's Committee for Dewey and Ives.

Permanent British occupation of the Cape of Good Hope, now in the Union of South Africa, was started in 1806.

came up again on June 16, 1942, when "the chairman reported that questions regarding the effect on our production program of the requirements of the Moscow protocol had been discussed with the President who, subsequently, had written as the commander-in-chief to the chairman directing that the terms of the protocol must be fulfilled regardless of the effect on any other part of our war program."

Discussion at the two meetings showed that principal items giving the board concern as a result of the Moscow agreement were divided into two classes: (1) Aircraft cord, springs for machine guns, automatic rifles and other munitions made from wire demanded by the Russians; and (2) bearings for airplane and tank production, badly needed for the American program and equally badly wanted by the Soviet Union.

Concerned Over Directive

"It was generally agreed," the minutes said, "that the chairman would refer to the President for his consideration the drastic effect on the war production program of the wire and wire rope requirements of the Moscow protocol."

In October, 1942, the board also was concerned over the number of "must" directives from the President because of conflict with other programs.

"The chairman emphasized," the minutes show, "that 'musts' in the war production program, including objectives for airplanes, merchant ships, escort ships, minor naval craft, synthetic rubber and aid to Russia were compelling items that must be produced and delivered under directives from the president. He stated that these items alone placed a heavy burden upon the economy, and their realization requires reconsideration of the remainder of the war production program."

well Thomas Greer School Anniversary

When Greer School celebrated its Anniversary on Columbus day, over 450 residents of Dutchess county and Newburgh, Kingston, Poughkeepsie, Lanesville and Sharon gathered to see the school and hear Mr. Thomas.

Mr. Thomas presented a novel idea to rouse our young people to vision of world leadership and responsibility. He urged Greer School to induct into preparatory schools to induct a man of outstanding ability in world affairs to give a lecture to the students. Following the lecture he asked the older students to be asked to talk personally with the speaker. He suggested that the day the visitor be asked to give one or two classes. In this way individual students would not learn much about world affairs but be inspired to devote lives to building up better relationships.

Edward Pulling, vice president of Greer School and head of the Brook School for Boys, president, Arthur W. Butler, president of the Board of Directors of Greer School welcomed the many presenting Mr. Thomas, Mr. Thomas stated that a man of such caliber needed no introduction, and he would devote the introduction to remembering a time when those who had been the spirits in the establishment and furthering of the work of the school, in its early days, were mentioned by the founder.

Mr. Thomas mentioned that the average yearly payment by families is $400. The school adds to that $150 per child from endowment and must secure $450 more per child from public spirited citizens to make up the annual cost of $1,000. He wondered if Dutchess county knew that 10 per cent of the registration was from our own county and that it costs the school this extra $450 for each child.

The visitors were allowed to visit any and all buildings, and student guides took them to the places of their own choice.

Among the guests from Kingston were Mr. and Mrs. Edmund R. Bower, Capt. Helena Clearwater, Mrs. Ralph LeFever, Mr. and Mrs. Roger H. Loughran, the Rev. and Mrs. Arthur E. Oudemool, Mrs. Charles Terwilliger, Clarence B. Mullen, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin C. Lacey, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rigby, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Clair S. Shaeffer, and Mrs. Lloyd R. LeFever.

to send them to private schools. The broken family meant the school has always exercised a twelve month responsibility.

was only 700,000 or 1 1/2 per cent below the wartime peak. Unemployment, reported by the Census Bureau, remained at about 2,000,000.

Lives Says Labor Breakdown Caused by Government Actions

By CATHERINE PARKER
Corning, N. Y., Oct. 17 (AP)—M. Ives, Republican candidate for the U. S. Senate, blamed government intervention in the labor-management problems for the nation's labor difficulties today as he prepared to swing into Chemung county on his upstate campaign tour.

There has been a "breakdown of collective bargaining between labor and management because, during the war both came to turn to the government in problems with which the government never should have had any connections," he told a Republican rally here last night.

He is scheduled to speak tonight at Elmira.
The Communist Party sees in the "confusion" of government regulations its "best chance of ultimate success in the United States," he declared.

In the labor-management field, he said, "the first thing we've got to do is get collective bargaining working again, before considering revision of any statute."

"We've got to aim for conditions of understanding and happiness between labor and management," he said, so there will be no need for government.

"My criticism of the Democratic Party is that it is always turning to government to solve every problem that comes along, no matter how trivial it is. Men who seek to concentrate more and more power in a central government play directly into the hands of the Communists."

Emphasizing that the "present Democratic party is in no sense Communist," he stated that the hope of the Communist Party is that "it might happen that a chaotic state would be reached where these same Communists could carry out their design of seizing power, even though they represent but a tiny minority of the people."

Before Communist Party candidates were withdrawn from the state ticket and the Party's support thrown to Democratic nominees, he contended, the Communists "naturally considered where their influence might be put to the greatest advantage to them. They chose the present Democratic party."

George Goetschius, 18, of Wellsville, took second prize with a demonstration on "selecting a breed of poultry."

Fliers to Hop Into Hall of Fame

By E. V. W. JONES
(AP Newsfeatures)

Miami, Fla.—Who were the five greatest men in aviation? A great many persons who are pretty big in the aviation game themselves are pondering the question just now. For nominations are in order for the Aviation Hall of Fame. The Hall of Fame is sponsored by the International Aviation Fraternity, with headquarters in Miami. The shrine is to be founded here, with five new names entered about Jan. 1 each year.

Ten thousand letters asking for nominations are being mailed all over the world.

Wilbur and Orville Wright appear to have clinched the two top places among the first five nominees, although not every letter lists them.

Gen. Carl Spaatz, chief of the Army Air Forces, nominated the Wright brothers, and then listed, in order, Brig. Gen. William Mitchell, Gen. Henry H. Arnold, and Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle.

"Billy" Mitchell drew Gen. Spaatz' nomination because he was the first American officer to fly over enemy lines in World War I, set a world speed record of 224.05 miles an hour, and demonstrated the offensive power of the airplane over battleships.

Gen. Arnold was taught to fly in the Wright Brothers school in Dayton, O., set an altitude record of 6,540 feet in June 1, 1912, and in World War 2, directed the U. S. Air Forces.

Gen. "Jimmy" Doolittle, after a long history in the development of aviation, was the guiding genius of the air attacks which isolated Japan.

T. P. Wright, Administrator of Civil Aeronautics, nominated only Orville Wright of the brothers who invented the airplane, and cast his four remaining votes for Gen. Arnold, Gen. Doolittle, Igor Ivan Sikorsky, the designer and builder of aircraft and Edward Pearson Warner for his work as engineer, editor, consultant, teacher, student and director of the aeronautical arts.

Kenneth E. Allen, managing editor of American Aviation Publications, gave T. P. Wright a vote and also named Dr. E. P. Warner.

His other votes went to Joseph J. George, air transport meteorologist for his research in the weather field; C. R. Smith, chairman of American Airlines, for his campaign to bring down air travel costs; and Robert W. Ayer, engineer, for his contribution to all-weather flying, particularly in the field of radar.

Paintings and plaques will honor those selected. Aviation centers throughout the world will be asked to display lithographs of aviation's great.

SHOKAN

Shokan, Oct. 17—Miss Agnes Clarke, who has been residing at the home of her sister, Mrs. Harry Weeks, for several months, expects to leave this week for New York. Miss Clark will visit friends in the city for a few days before going on to Los Angeles where she will spend the winter months.

Stilwell's Ashes Are Scattered Over California Waters

Carmel, Calif., Oct. 17 (AP)—General Joseph W. Stilwell's ashes were scattered yesterday in the Pacific Ocean in accordance with the soldier-hero's wishes.

His personal plane, carrying the same three crew members who flew him on countless missions in China and Burma, carried the ashes out to sea after dipping low and circling the Stilwell family home, Llandfair, at Carmel.

The crew members were Major Emmett Treisen, pilot; Lt. Robert A. Prop, co-pilot; and Capt. Joseph B. Smith.

The four-star general died Saturday in Letterman General Hospital after a long illness.

His death was commended by the Sixth Army, with headquarters at the Presidio in San Francisco.

Private services were held in Llandfair, with only members of the family and close friends attending.

Carmel and nearby communities suspended business for 15 minutes as a mark of respect. Schools observed a minute of silence. Community services were held here in Llandfair Plaza with the placing of a wreath before the Carmel war memorial in Stilwell's memory.

Army Search Party Can't Find Enslaved Fliers

Sichang, China, Oct. 15 (Delayed AP)—A U. S. Army search party returned today from the wilds of China's Far West without evidence that any lost American fliers have been enslaved by the fierce Lolo tribesmen.

They brought back the bones of one American crew member who perished in the crash of a Superfortress in March of 1945. The bodies of three others were recovered by the Chinese months ago.

The remaining six of the crew may have parachuted into the dense jungle and been captured by the Lolo warriors, but this is speculation and there is as yet no evidence to back it up.

Still Has Plenty

Belfast people were recently advised by Hugh Smylie, honorary auditor, that of the $2,000,000 fund originally raised in Northern Ireland for the survivors of the Titanic disaster in 1912, there is still $1,000,000 to be disposed of and only 60 dependents left to share it. Smylie urged the establishment of some form of fund which would be easily accessible for quick disbursement, instead of a plan that would invest it in such a way that immediate grants could not be made. During the next 20 years, he predicted there will be many calls for funds.

Aviation Survey Is Being Made in N. Y. To Learn Needs

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 17—An intensive study of aviation in New York state is being made by Drew and Peters, aviation consultants, with offices in Buffalo and St. Louis, in conjunction with the New York State Department of Commerce, Commissioner M. P. Catherwood announced today.

Designed to establish the air transportation needs of New York state and to provide a guide for future planning of air transportation facilities, the survey is scheduled to be completed within a few months.

Aviation requirements of approximately 50 New York cities will be studied and the facts obtained from these investigations will provide a basis for a statewide analysis.

The rapid increase in air travel and air freight shipments since the end of the war, together with the Federal airport construction program which is to go into operation within the next year, makes an air survey of this type an essential feature of state planning, Commissioner Catherwood said.

"It is most desirable," he said, "that adequate air transportation be available to every person in the State of New York, and this survey will further this objective."

Red Cross to Hold Meeting for Workers

The Ulster County Chapter, American Red Cross, will hold a meeting for its volunteer home service workers, Monday afternoon, October 21, 2 to 5 o'clock, at the First Dutch Reformed Church House on Main street.

Mrs. Dorothy Fasanella will be present to tell of her experiences overseas as a Red Cross Hospital Recreation Worker in Besancon, France, where she served for 13 months with the 48th Army General Hospital. Since her return to this country Mrs. Fasanella has served as general field representative with the American Red Cross North Atlantic Area office in New York.

The chapter will take this opportunity to express its appreciation for the continued loyal support of the volunteer workers and the future program of the Home Service Department will be discussed.

Town Has Flea Purge

The Spanish resort town of San Sebastian is trying to live down the reputation given it by Victor Hugo—that of being flea-infested. Visiting there once, he wrote: "The waves leave their mark on the Basque coast, and the fleas leave their record on the bodies of residents and visitors." This year, the municipality bought great quantities of DDT powder. Houses, villas, hotels, taxis, buses and street cars were remorselessly purged and a special mixture was prepared for the part of famous Concha beach lying above the high-water mark.

Malaria-bearing Mosquitoes

The malaria section of the United States used to be described as ranging from the latitude of Richmond, Va., to the longitude of San Antonio, Texas, including 12 states. The return of many of our fighting men from the Pacific may change all that. Many of them have had malaria. Some of them still carry malaria parasites in their bodies. If these men return to areas where the malaria-bearing mosquito—the female Anopheles—is found, new cases of malaria may follow.

Here is how the chain of man-to-mosquito-to-man works: When the female Anopheles mosquito bites a person who has malaria, she sucks the parasites into her own body. If she bites a well person some two weeks later, she puts the parasites into his blood. After about eight to 14 days, the well person comes down with malaria.

The Anopheles mosquito is different from other mosquitoes that do not carry malaria. She does not sting. She has small spots on her wings, and when she bites she stands on her head. Other mosquitoes bite in a position that keeps them parallel to the skin.

Malaria mosquitoes bite mostly at night. In the daytime they seek a cool dark place. You can find them in barns, in stables with the animals, in hollow stumps, in brush near the water's edge and in stagnant water in shady places. They do not like bright sunlight.

If you can avoid the Anopheles mosquito you can avoid malaria—or "chills and fever" as it is sometimes called. Here are some ways to help you stay clear of mosquitoes:

Mosquito proof your house by screening.

Close chimneys and fireplaces.

Find and kill mosquitoes that suck your nose.

Clear up mosquito breeding places near your home.

Keep any malaria patient in your family behind screens so that a mosquito cannot spread the infection to others.

Your community can do its share in malaria control by draining or filling in places where mosquitoes breed. Places that cannot be drained or filled can be sprayed. When we get rid of mosquitoes, we wipe out malaria. Methods for getting rid of them can be discussed with the local health department.

In the next article, the symptoms of malaria and its treatment will be discussed.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

Just Plain Thievery
Peekskill, N. Y., Oct. 17 (AP)—Town officials here are being troubled by a new type of vandalism.

William E. Foster, acting superintendent of the water bureau, disclosed that 12 fire hydrant caps—which authorities say are of little or no use for any other purpose—have been stolen.

Better'n Foxhole
New York, Oct. 17 (AP)—The Independent Veterans Committee for Robert H. Thayer, a Republican candidate in the 14th Congressional District, Brooklyn, will open its headquarters tonight—in a tent.

Committee Chairman Morton B. Lawrence said:

"It is no secret there is not a stone or a flat available in the district."

Thayer is assistant commissioner of the New York State Division of Housing.

No Fare
Chicago, Oct. 17 (AP)—Streetcar service on South State street was halted temporarily by a passenger who had been ejected for refusing to pay his fare.

Conductor Maurice O'Connor said after he put off Willie Jones, 30, he sat on a safety island, his feet stretched across the tracks, and refused to move.

But a police squad took Jones for a free ride to central station, where he was charged with disorderly conduct.

Traffic Mixup
Marion, Ill., Oct. 17 (AP)—Eva Mae Brimm drove from nearby Creal Springs, parked her car and went to take an examination for a driver's license.

When she returned to her car she found a police ticket—for a parking violation.

President Chester A. Arthur and New York's Governor Grover Cleveland presided at the opening of the Brooklyn Bridge in 1883.

De Luxe Hunts Offered
London's latest postwar service is "Big Game Safaris, Limited," an organization which, for $800 a month, will fly anyone by private plane from London to Africa and there guarantee him the thrills of a lion hunt.

"Crash Survivor"

Is Drunken G.I.

Mineola N. Y., Oct. 17 (AP)—A soldier, carrying an overcoat, was seen staggering up to a watchman at nearby Roosevelt Field last night and a witness reported the crash of a plane about a mile east of the field.

He told the watchman he was a crash survivor and had been sent for a drink. The watchman, who immediately dispatched a patrol car, said the plane was a C-47, and that it had crashed into a field. The pilot, who was seen running wild, was taken to the guard house.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By ED CREAGH
(For Hal Boyle)

London, Oct. 17 (AP)—"What," said the visiting American wiping his forehead. "Now these titles—viscount and baron and the like pass from father to son, don't they?"

"For the most part yes," to the eldest son. But a duke's young sons rank the eldest sons of a viscount or an earl, and a master in lunacy.

"A what?"

"A master in lunacy can look down if he likes on the eldest sons of the younger sons of peers. You don't have to take my word for it. It's all down in the statute books."

There was a long pause while the visitor drained his glass.

"I suppose," he said weakly, "all this applies to women too?"

"Oh my yes. Even more so maybe. The queen's maids of honor are many cuts higher than, for instance, the wives of the oldest sons of the youngest sons of peers."

"You're not kidding me, are you?"

"Not at all take a duke's daughter now."

"Would she have me?"

"I doubt it. But if she did she would rank higher on the social scale than if she had married a baron."

"Well of course," said the new-corner. "I knew I was a pretty name but keep her title. She'd be an important fellow in my own country. Suppose her sister married Baron Bulinggate. She would become Bulinggate. Suppose the Lady lady—or baroness—Bulinggate. Suppose Smythe daughter of the Duke. Doytval married you a year ahead of her. All clear?"

"Perfectly," said the American shuddering. "By the way, are they having for dinner?"

"Yes. May I escort you?"

"Set, would you call up one of the masters of lunacy you were talking about? Maybe you were talking about? Maybe he'd better escort both of us."

Financial and Commercial

New York, Oct. 17 (P)—Stocks generally continued to give ground in today's market without being subjected to much of a selling push.

The pace slowed appreciably after an active opening. Losses of fractions to 2 points predominated near the fourth hour with scattered issues down 4 to 5. Steels, motors, rails and "blue chip" industrials were in front of the decline.

Weakness of major commodities and livestock served as a bearish influence for stocks, brokers said. Many customers, they added, cashed profits on the recent recovery with the idea the slide might be resumed in reflection of a possible business slowdown in coming months.

Yesterday's strong American Woolen shares were among the first to slip. Other laggards included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Goodrich, Eastern Air Lines, du Pont, Montgomery Ward, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, American Telephone, Phelps Dodge, American Smelting, Allied Chemical, Johns-Manville, Eastman Kodak, J. C. Penney, Atlantic Coast Line, Union Pacific and Great Northern.

France Needs People

France must import 3,000,000 immigrants in the next 10 years in order to survive. Robert Prigent, Minister for Population, said in Paris. The nation, which began the war with 41,000,000 population, ended it with 40,300,000. There now are two women to every man. The birth rate is low and ready has sagged too low and even an unprecipitated rate will not be enough. Almost 7,000,000 women over 20 are unmarried and 1,500,000 men over 25 are bachelors. The divorce rate has tripled and infant mortality is high.

New York City Produce Market

New York, Oct. 17 (P)—Produce prices were steady and unchanged. Strong consumer resistance to soaring butter prices, plus uncertainty of fats and oils helped crack wholesale quotations today in the widest decline in more than two years, dealers reported.

In the N. Y. Mercantile Exchange butter tumbled from record high levels with losses of 7 to 8 cents a pound. Top-grade butter sold at 79 1/2 to 80 1/2 cents a pound. Yesterday wholesale butter declined 1 to 2 cents a pound. Butter in retail markets has been selling at around $1 a pound and more. The housewife has balked at these prices, according to market men, and this attitude was felt almost immediately in the wholesale trade.

How Goering Got Poison Is Question

the gallows with suicide, but was foiled by a watchful guard.

Poison Is Mystery

Nuernberg, Oct. 17 (AP)—Sources inside Nuernberg jail said today that 12 German employees were under constant scrutiny in connection with a three-man army board's closely veiled investigation of how, where and when Hermann Goering got the cyanide with which he beat the hangman by two hours Tuesday night.

These sources, unidentifiable by name, said the Germans were not under arrest but described them as being "protectively held" until they are completely cleared of all possible complicity in the eleven-hour suicide by which Goering managed to precede his 10 doomed colleagues in death.

The secrecy surrounding the burial place of the one-time No. 2 Nazi and the 10 who died by the noose yesterday morning remained impenetrable, although it was believed the bodies had been spirited away by plane for interment.

Rumors without confirmation circulated in the corridors of the old prison that the ringleaders of Adolf Hitler's wrecked Fascist regime might have been buried at sea.

The army board investigating the Goering suicide, meanwhile, called in, one by one, every person who conceivably might have had some connection with the pudgy Reichsmarschall in his last days and nights in the death block.

Col. Richard McConnell, public relations officer, told reporters the board was working without any special technical assistance thus far and added that no decision had been reached as to whether such special assistants in crime detection would be called in.

No Arrests Made

He stated emphatically that no arrests have been made in connection with the investigation and that none, as yet, were "contemplated."

In the meantime, the Allied Control Council's commission which conducted the executions disclosed that it had translations of the three notes Goering left in his cell but said the contents of the notes would not be divulged.

One of the notes was addressed to the prison commandant and there was immediate speculation that Goering might have told how he got the poison and how he concealed it—his last grim joke.

Col. B. C. Andrus, prison commandant, insisted that he believes his own personnel innocent of any wrongdoing. He said bitterly that a German attorney, perhaps in the last days of the trial, may have given Goering the poison vial that enabled him to take his own life. In this, however, he was in conflict with his assistant, Major Fred Teich, who said he was convinced that Goering had found some way to conceal the vial and might have had it in his possession ever since his incarceration after the war ended.

Teich also sought to explode a circulating theory that one of the prison guards traded Goering the poison for one of the marshal's gems. Teich said he had all the jewels safe in the prison strong-box.

Defendants Seem Pleased

News of Goering's suicide and of the execution of the other 10 men raced swiftly through the prison to the seven defendants who escaped with prison terms, to be served eventually in Spandau jail, Berlin. A guard said they received the news non-committally, but gave the impression that they were pleased Goering had escaped the noose.

These men, including Rudolf Hess, are to be transferred to Spandau sometime next month, prison reports said.

Goering's suicide still was big news in Nuernberg today and a casual sampling of German opinion, elicited some startling viewpoints. For instance:

A barber said the Americans gave the poison to Goering deliberately.

A laundress said she would be willing to bet that Goering got the poison from the prison laundress in a bar of soap—or something like that.

A laborer said "straw dolls" actually were hanged and that the real Nazis were alive somewhere.

Generally, former Nazis are delighted with Goering's trick. Anti-Nazis are shocked. Everyone wants to know the answer to one question: How did he get the poison?

Shipyard Worker Held For Robbery in Bronx

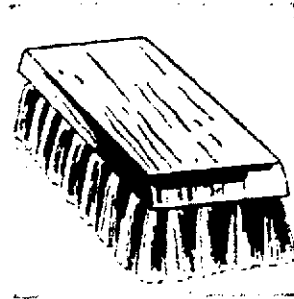

New York, Oct. 17 (AP)—Frank D'Amico, 32, a shipyard worker of 589 Westchester avenue, the Bronx, was booked on charges of robbery and violation of the Sullivan Law early today after police said he was captured following the holdup of an all-night restaurant at 4551 Third avenue, the Bronx.

Police said D'Amico entered the restaurant, ordered coffee and then, drawing a revolver, told the owner, Alexander Seig, "I need money." Police said Seig took $10 in bills from the register and D'Amico fled.

Seig called police, gave a description of the alleged robber and a radio patrol car was sent to search the area. Police said they picked up D'Amico about a block away from the restaurant. They said he was carrying a revolver and $10 in bills.

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

WHEN TO BEGIN EATING

A reader says: "You have written that after two others at the table have been served, one may begin eating slowly without waiting. Would this be considered polite if the meal, let's say, were a cold supper? Also, your answer to this question has brought another to mind: What length of time is one expected to wait before beginning to eat at a lunch party served at many small tables?"

It is proper to begin to eat when two other people have been served.
To wait for the hostess to begin was a custom originated by those at the table who did not know how to choose their implement until they noticed which one their hostess took. The person served first at a small table should wait until the others also have been served. What the people are doing at the other tables is of no concern to those at the first table.

Introducing Oneself

Dear Mrs. Post: I am secretary to a prominent lawyer. Frequently, out-of-town people come to see my employer. When such a person introduces himself to me, should I in turn introduce myself to him? In the past when this has happened and the person said,
"I am Mr. Smith," I said, "Yes,

Mr. Smith. Mr. Brown is expecting you."

Answer: Your last suggestion is right. But should it seem better to introduce yourself, you would say,
"I am Miss Jones, Mr. Brown's secretary."

Save Cake for Greater Occasion
Dear Mrs. Post: We're having a private dinner after a private wedding ceremony, just for the families and a few friends, but in the evening we're having a large reception. When should the wedding cake be cut?

Answer: At the reception.

Does the hostess help herself first when a woman guest is seated at her table? Send for Mrs. Post's leaflet, "The Origin of the Great American Rudeness," obtainable for a 3-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to her in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G,
New York 19, N. Y.

cate, Inc.)

Crocs Have Tummy Aches

Crocodiles suffer from stomach troubles, Dr. Albert Schweitzer, pital at Lambaré, in French found their stomachs affected by Business Girls Hold Annual Supper and Bazaar at Y. W.

More than 200 servings were made last night at the annual supper and bazaar of the Business and Professional Girls' Club of the Y. W. C. A. The menu featured roast beef and two table seatings were arranged at 5:30 and 6:15 o'clock.

The room also contained the booths for the bazaar at which the club members sold various fancy articles, food items, jewelry and miscellaneous articles. All members of the club assisted in some part of the work for the annual affair.

Sellout Due for Fights Tonight; Maroon Seconds Steal Drill

Matthews-Jenkins Bout Is Magnet For Ticket Demand

Supporting Card Promises Plenty of Action for B'nai B'rith Fans; First Bout 9 P.M.

This is fight night in Kingston and indications are that the municipal auditorium will be jammed for the B'nai B'rith card featuring Buddy Matthews vs. Ike Jenkins, two New Yorkers, and an all-star list of supporting bouts.

Starting time of the first preliminary is 9 o'clock and if the festive menu runs true to the predictions of the experts, there should be plenty of rug firework from first going to the final clang of Timer Mort Fitch's big gong.

Fans look to the main five round bout for plenty of hard punching. Buddy Matthews, one of the best welterweights in the metropolitan district, holds a knockout victory over Tony Genovese, New England champion from Boston, Mass., having polished off the titleholder in three rounds here on September 19.

Ike Jenkins, appearing in the local ring twice chalked up technical knockouts on both occasions. He stopped Bencon's Paul Hawkes, a rugged brawler, on September 2 in the second round. Meeting Mike Sally of Schenectady two weeks ago, he won by a T.K.O. in the third round.

"This looks like one of the best matches yet," remarked Dr. Saul Goldfarb, B'nai B'rith boxing chairman, when he talked to a reporter this morning.

Supporting Bouts

Carmino Virgilio, Poughkeepsie underdog bantamweight champion of the Hudson valley, will box Juan Linder, Puerto Rico, in one of the five rounds that promises plenty of action. Virgilio is the type of scrapper who keeps punching all the way.

In other fives, Tommy Baker, Gloversville featherweight, who beat Percy Wilson two weeks ago, will meet Dave Peters of New York and Cliff Smith of Newburgh is to tangle with Fred Tippman, New York middleweight. Smith kayaked Carl Barney in the first round on the previous card.

Three-Round Prelims

Tom Davis, Kingston middleweight vs. Tom Smernick, Johnson.

Paul Alegro, Albany light-heavyweight vs. Jimmy Taylor of Newburgh.

Al Jones of Catskill vs. Tom Hood, Albany lightweight.

As early as 1943, Ambrose Pare adopted a pressure method for inducing anesthesia—by pressure applied to a nerve trunk or artery.

Better Bowling

By BILLY SIXTY

A bowler can only be as good as his footwork is sound. In other words, control is based entirely on how accurately the stride finishes in the same place at the foul line with each delivery.

Not enough stress can be put on following a straight line, and the importance of getting set (stance) in an identical spot on the runway each time.

Getting set properly means more, in fact, than standing in the same place for every delivery. It means also pointing the feet straight ahead in exactly the same position for each stride. The slightest variation of the feet—just a mite off line—alters the position of the body (its direction) and the feet, therefore, simply cannot finish at the desired spot at the foul line.

I have found it a big help to "line up" for direction by extending the left foot ahead of the right in taking the stance—using the left foot as an indicator. Doing this gives easy body balance, simplifies the push-away of the ball in harmony with the first step with the right foot.

I used the four-stride delivery originally, in which the toes of the feet were square (even), but found the left foot indicator more comfortable and more conducive to easy footwork and body action.

Central Rec League

Bob Myers walked off with both high single and triple honors in the Central Rec League Tuesday night when he blasted out a 241 single and 593 three-timer as the Evergreen Inn keggers took all three from Chez Emile. B. Neer and George Castor helped out with 531 and 524 triples. J. Bechtold was high 40's.

Steins won two from Slover-Jensen-Schline as John Altamora hit 201 and 560. Ellis and J. Davis rolled 523 and 513 for the winners while Art Jensen hit 515 for the S.J.S. team. Jensen's 203 single was high in the match.

Jones Darry copped two from Words. D. Levy smacked out 551 and Pete Ferraro had an even 200 for the dairymen. Eltinge Auchmoody's 548 series was high for the losing club.

Smith Avenue Storage took two from the Hotel Ulster squad. Stevenson's 210 and 571 sparked the winners while Ernie Magnusson posted 530 and 210 for the Ulsters.

The scores:

Bettors Give Army 20 Points Margin in Columbia Game

New York, Oct. 17 (AP)—Football followers who insist that the Army can't stay up there indefinitely look to Columbia this week as a task at which the 22-point underdogs have failed.

Columbia, Cornell and Michigan have tried their hand at this business of knocking the Cadets out of their football pedestal and there is little hope for Columbia in achieving graduation immortality by beating the upstart.

But the longshot players will go to the game with Duke, West Virginia, Notre Dame, Penn and Navy their choices each success week to keep a third straight national championship away from the banks of the Hudson.

Lou Little isn't predicting any victory for his Lions, but he says with deep conviction, "we're going to try to win and we're going to try to win."

And lest the Lions assume they are lightly held in their game at West Point Saturday, Army Coach Earl (Red) Blaik emphasizes "Army has a wholesome respect for Columbia." Columbia's comeback triumph over Navy and Yale back Blaik's job of selling that viewpoint to his men, too.

Columbia is working primarily on one thing—attack—since the Lions don't figure to stop Doc Blanchard and Glenn Davis with a comparatively inferior line. If Columbia is to win, it must shoot the works offensively.

Little worked offense almost solely the last two days, cancelling scrimmage to polish aerial maneuvers and giving particular attention to downfield blocking. He is satisfied his backfield could score with it against any team in the country, if the line did its job.

But the line has been giving the Columbia mentor trouble all season, and in this case is one of the big reasons why the betting fraternity is conceding Army 20 points over the Lions.

Jenkins Overhauls His Car; Does 125 M.P.H.

Salt Lake City, Oct. 17 (AP)—Ab Jenkins brought his new "Mobil Special" racing car to Salt Lake City today after roaring at speeds up to 125 miles per hour in the first test run for the tiny vehicle on the Bonneville Salt Flats late yesterday.

Jenkins announced that the 1,900-pound car will be overhauled and given a thorough cleansing of the salt collected on the trial run, then held in readiness to make a full-scale attack on Jenkins' long-distance speed records at a moment's notice.

The 63-year-old former, Salt Lake City mayor made the test after rains softened the course's saline surface and caused him to announce the second postponement of the record attempt. He reported the record attempt would be pushed ahead at least a week until the weather clears.

Jenkins holds all records for 50 miles and upward.

Will Probe Records Of Two Running For Congress Posts

Chicago, Oct. 17 (AP)—Edward A. Hayes, chairman of American Action Inc., says the organization's workers in Missouri will study the records of two congressional candidates in that state and report their findings to the group's executive committee for action.

Hayes did not name the two. In Washington Tuesday night he told the House Campaign Expenditures Committee his group will oppose reelection of Reps. DeLoach (D-Wash) and Marcantonio (AL-NY).

Names of other men to be endorsed or opposed were discussed by the executive committee in a closed meeting yesterday. Hayes said reporters, but it was voted not to make public any list at this time.

Hayes, a former national commander of the American Legion, said any requests for opposition to candidates will be instigated by local groups and sent to the national headquarters here.

Hayes said the group outlined plans to become "a permanent political factor in the United States" and said its purpose was "to uphold and defend America against Communism, Fascism, anti-Semitism and all alien or anti-American groups that are attempting to destroy our form of government and our American way of life."

He said the organization's local groups already are engaged in "political activities to carry out its principals" in 11 states including New York, New Jersey and Connecticut.

Also present at the meeting were: Robert Christenberry, New York; Robert Harris, Forest Hills, L. I.; Mervin K. Hart, New York; Robert E. Condon, Larchmont, N. Y., and Earl Harding, New York.

Polish Educator At Fall Meeting Ulster Educators

Walkill, Oct. 17.—The Ulster Educators were honored October 14, at their fall work conference at Walkill Central School, when Kazimierz Marjanski, a member of the Ministry of Education in Poland, was presented to them by Ralph H. Johnson, district superintendent. This Polish educator is from the department of training of rural teachers in Poland. He stated that Poland is one of the greatest proponents of peace; that Polish people are doing all in their power to hamper the instigators of a third World War. He said in part, "You Americans have the wonderful heritage of democracy that should motivate you in maintaining peace. We must be aware of the dangers of the atomic—maybe even worse—war. I can safely tell my colleagues that you American educators are doing all you can to keep the white star of peace shining." Marjanski came to America in 1939, just seven weeks before the invasion. In an informal talk he stressed the stupendous hardships of the Polish people as a whole and of the educators in particular.

Mr. Marjanski spent the day following the conference observing schools in the second supervisory district and was especially interested in good teachers who had little equipment to do with.

C. Everett Terwilliger, president of the Walkill school board, welcomed the Educators at the morning session. John Gardiner, president of the Association, had charge of the business sessions. Group discussions were in charge of the Walkill teachers.

At midday a turkey dinner was served by members of the home-making department, in charge of Ellen Frazier, home economics teacher.

The feature of the afternoon program was an informal panel discussion on "Improving Education Through a Stronger Professional Organization." Guests on this panel were Dr. Arvid Burke, director of studies, New York State Teachers' Association, and Douglas Grafflin, principal of Horace Greeley High School, Chappaqua. Organization members serving on the panel were: John Lake, New Paltz, who presented the weakness in the association; John McElhenny, Walkill, who suggested ways and means of overcoming these; John Crowley, Highland, who suggested ways and means of tackling the salary problem, with emphasis on our obligation to the public; Jack Robinson, Marlborough, who advocated the formation of a teachers' union not necessarily affiliated with a national labor organization, but along the same lines as associations of other professions, such as the medical and bar associations.

Albert Kingsley, of Marlborough, served as a moderator.

Regardless of the type of organization, it was the hard effort of the individuals' unity of purpose that made any organization, union or junction as Jack Robinson termed it, strong and effective.

During the business session Muriel Rall of Marlborough, was elected vice-president to succeed Olive Aitken, resigned. Mary Mount, representing the rural group, was appointed chairman of the nominating committee. The representatives from the rural area appointed to serve on the public relations and classroom teachers committees are: Ethel DeWitt and Carolyn Munnely, respectively.

Soap Outlook Gloomy

New York, Oct. 17 (AP)—Soap makers, who saw a ray of hope for improved supplies in the decontrol of livestock, today found the outlook gloomy again. O.P.A. removed price restraints on edible fats and oils but left the inedible types used as raw materials for soap making untouched. Users of the inedible types are in a tight spot.

Man Plugs Pipe With Finger, Calls for Help

Kept busy trying to shut off a flow of water from a pipe in the cellar of his home, George DuBois of 36 Franklin street, plugged the crack in the pipe with his finger, and then called for help to close the shutoff valve in the pipe.

His cries for help were heard by a woman who immediately called police headquarters on the telephone and informed Sergeant William A. Krum on desk duty that a man was calling for help from the cellar of the house.

Sergeant Krum dispatched Officers Edward Leonard and George P. Bowers to the house. The officers shut off the valve and Mr. DuBois removed his finger from the crack in the pipe.

Mineola, N. Y., Oct. 17 (AP)—James D. C. Murray, a well-known New York state criminal lawyer, today was appointed defense counsel for Ward Beecher Caraway, whose trial on a first degree murder charge is scheduled to be resumed Monday. Murray replaces Charles R. Weeks, who withdrew from the case after his physician told him it would endanger his health to continue with the trial. Amalgamated Is Credited With Hike In Garment Pay

Organization Gets Contract for Raises at Two Shirt Factories in Kingston

Approximately 500 cotton garment workers in Kingston are benefitted by pay raises granted 75,000 workers in the industry, according to an agreement signed by the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America and management this week.

Most of the 500 Kingston workers are employed at Jacobson and Manhattan factories, Mabel Fisher, local organizer for the Amalgamated, said today.

Workers were granted pay increases averaging 10 cents an hour with a 65 cents an hour minimum set for the industry. Another feature of the contract is the granting of a second week's vacation with pay after one year of employment.

PAY AS YOU RIDE

A small down payment and 8 monthly payments buys auto insurance, if you want credit. You need insurance to avoid trouble and possible loss of your automobile.

For $5.00 you can buy $1,100 fire insurance on furniture in a dwelling in Kingston for 3 years. The policy also covers up to $110 in any place outside the home.

What if someone falls on your sidewalk or is injured on your premises? $5 a year insures a private home against such claims.

Plate glass insurance does not cost much. Ask for an estimate.

I have a monthly payment plan which enables business men to pay insurance premiums out of income. It's a confidential, convenient insurance service.

West Coasters Won't Pay High Charges

San Francisco, Oct. 17 (AP)—Meat is reappearing in quantity in this area but several retail butchers reported that perhaps 50 per cent of their customers were refusing to buy at the higher prices that followed decontrol.

As wholesale prices advanced sharply for the second successive day, one large San Francisco retailer told a reporter:

"People just won't buy meat at these prices. The sooner retail shops realize it and stop buying at present wholesale prices, the sooner prices will go down again."

Drys Are Sympathetic

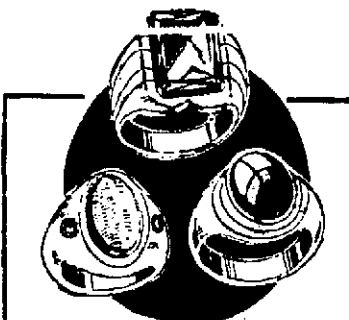

"I like rowing men, even if they do drink a lot of beer," Lady Astor said, in presenting trophies after the Maidenhead Regatta in England. However, the Maidenhead Conservative Club was completely dry, for the first time in 45 years. The steward commented: "Total members have shown considerable sympathy."

Attention Veterans

Due to critical material shortage in home construction the new government regulation will make available more materials for VETERAN HOUSING . . . both for new construction and remodeling . . . we are cooperating 100% with this new government order and thus our stock of plumbing supplies is at your disposal . . . however you will be required to fill priority ratings.

Our complete stock of plumbing supplies is being held for you . . . so here is your chance to take full advantage to secure the many hard-to-get items to complete that home. From 75 to 95% of our stock of critical materials is being held exclusively for veterans . . . which you so rightly deserve.

To Our Many Friends and Patrons

To our many non-veteran friends and patrons . . . to you there is still available a small percentage of materials, however government regulations have frozen 75 to 95% of our stock of critical materials that will be held for veterans only . . . we have all read accounts in the newspapers regarding the housing shortage . . . the government was forced to stop all non-essential construction so that the boys who made it possible for us to maintain the homes that we now have . . . be given the opportunity to make a place to live . . . we owe it to them. So until the day comes, which is not too far off, let's be patient and if you have a bathroom that is serviceable, wait until more materials are available in order to improve your bath or make any other alterations.
